General Notes: from "The Newguay Guardian" January 7th 1960.

"Schoolmaster Hotton"

Outstanding among the Methodists in Cornwall in the early decades of the 19th century was William Hotton (or Hutton) of Probus, sometimes known as "Schoolmaster Hotton". The son of Melchizedeck Hotton and Elizabeth Gummow, he was born on December 23rd 1768, and was educated at Tregony. The school is described as "A noted educational seminary", and was probably the precursor of Hart House School. As a local preacher he preached his first sermon at Sandoe's Gate, Feock, in 1805, and in his diary records that between that year and 1832 he preached in no less than 70 places, from St. Tudy in the east to Stythians in the west. A man of considerable ability he was greatly in request when chapels were being built; his name appears in many trust deeds, among them being St. Mary's Methodist, Truro, built 1829-30, and Chacewater Chapel built in 1833. His son, also called William, was carpenter by trade and married Maria Cowling, of Roche.

Famous Publishers.

Young William, soon after his marriage, removed to London and set up as a master carpenter in Clerkenwell. Here in 1832 his son, John Camden Hotten was born. The lad, on leaving school was apprenticed to a bookseller in Chancery Lane; on the expiration of his time he made a visit to America, where at that period a considerable business was being carried on in pirated copyright works. On his return to London he started in business on his own account as a bookseller and publisher. This was in 1855 and his shop was on a site where the Ritz Hotel now stands. His business was successful, much of it dealing with American works. He had seen for himself the methods of American publishers and considered himself justified in retaliating. He found it very profitable. In addition he had an excellent list of English writers. When he died, on June 14th 1873, at the untimely age of 41 years, his widow sold the business for £25,000 to Andrew Chatto, an employee for many years: he was later joined in partnership by W.E. Windus, and the great house of Chatto and Windus came into being.

from "Methodism in Probus 1781 - 1961" by Thomas Shaff

p.13 The circuit books of this period record the liberality of the Probus Methodists as they made their contributions not only to "trust" funds and "society" funds but to the numerous extra funds which helped the Methodist family to function - the Preachers' Fund, the Kingswood School Collection and the Missionary Fund.

A typical list of subscribers, of 1808, reads:

Probus Subscriptions to the Preachers' Fund

William Hotten	5..0
John Hotten	5..0
John Roberts	5..0
Zecharias Roberts	10..0
Miss G. Roberts	10..0
Mr. Kessell, senr.	2..6
E. Richards	1..0
Mr. Nicholls	2..0
Melchizedeck Dabb	1..0
Mr. Hocking	10..6

These figures would have to be multiplied many times before they could be compared with such a subscription list today.

p.14 v. William Hotten

Soon after the first chapel was built a travelling preacher called John M'Geary preached there, and in his congregation were two brothers, William and John Hatten, both of whom were deeply impressed with his message. William Hotten was born in Probus in 1768, and as a child was sent to an "educational seminary" at Tregony which was attended by the sons of gentlemen and farmers. He was a high spirited boy whose escapades on more than one occasion nearly ended fatally. One Sunday morning he saw a company of Methodists returning up the turnpike from their 8 a.m. prayer meeting. He noticed "how happy they looked" and the following week went along to their meeting. He never again left the fellowship which he joined that day.

He joined the society about 1797, became a class leader and, in 1805, a local preacher. For many long years he rode his horse to his appointments in the circuit that reached from Perranwell to Newquay, and rode even further afield to Constantine, Illogan, Padstow, St. Tudy and Luxulyan. There were times when he preached "at home" - on December 23rd, 1819, he wrote in his diary, "Tomorrow I am planned to preach at home, and feel the responsibility of the position much". And there were occasions when, as on the 5th November, 1832, he led the service at Probus because the appointed preacher didn't arrive.

Descendants of Hugh HOTTEN

p.16 Class meetings were held for the most part in the homes of the class leaders. William Hotten held two classes in his home. John Nicholls was also a class leader with James Dabb, junior, as his assistant, while other classes were led by James Yeoman, John Phillips, Thomas Reed, Richard Crewes, John Hotten and William Hotton, junior .

p.19      ii   Malt House into Chapel 1825

After the death of James Dabb, in 1812, the leadership of the society fell increasingly upon William Hotten, class leader and local preacher, and he appears to have been the prime mover in the transfer of the society to the present chapel, 136 years ago. In November, 1824, he wrote in his diary: "I went this day with two of my friends and bought the old Malt House. It stands on the East side of the road leading from Probus to Ladock; we intend to alter it into a chapel; the present chapel being too small to contain the people who wish to hear the Word of God". The conveyance of this building states that it had been "lately re-built and made into a Malthouse by George Huddy", but this cannot have been the beginning of its association with the malting business for back in 1752 a portion of the premises had been bought by Hilliam Sturtridge, a Truro maltster.

p.20 The new chapel was opened on July 16th, 1825, by the Rev. William Hayman, of the Falmouth circuit, who was shortly to come to Truro as superintendent, and whose memorial can be seen at St. Mary's. On February 9th 1826, the building and site were leased by Sir Christopher Hawkins to William Hotten and John Nicholls, and by them (the common procedure of the time) to the 'first trustees: William Annear, William Hotten the younger, Richard Crewes, John Searle, James Hotten, Thomas Rooke, John Carrivick Stannaway, James Dabb, Thomas Reed, John Hotten, Bennet Yeoman, Lewis Penticost, William Kestell and Charles Reynolds.

p.22 By 1845 the membership was back at its old level of 100. William Hotten wrote sadly, "The means of grace are being neglected and Methodist discipline is not being enforced". He continued to serve as class leader until 1838 when he "superannuated" and his class was divided between Andrew Rooper and J. Phillips.

p.26 In 1851 we have an exact (more or less) record of the size of the congregation. When he sat down to complete the form sent by the Census officer William Hotten recorded congregations of 145 in the morning of March 30th, and 245 in the evening. The morning service was probably attended by the majority of the 110 members of the society at that time, while the evening service would be swollen by large numbers of adherents. Hotten further recorded that 72 children attended the Sunday School held in the chapel that afternoon. He signed the return as steward, and gave his occupation as "watchmaker" .....A new trust was formed in 1860 consisting of William Hotten, junior.....

p.27 .... According to Theodore Hawken great alterations were made premises in 1861. What these alterations were we do not know, but in 1865 the trustees purchased the cottages directly to the north of the chapel ("lately the property of Juliana Hotten and George Edward George") for £100.

Grey, white, black, speckled, brown, or red, or blue;
With handkerchiefs of ever kind and size,
Ribbons and buttons, snaps, or hooks and eyes -
All kinds of ornaments and pretty toys,
To please the taste of little girls and boys.
And try us, just to see if we'll refuse
Clogs, pattens, boots, or men's or women's shoes;
But if you think that you can better spare
A set of china or some earthenware,
Then plates and dishes, saucers, cups and mugs,
Ewers and basons, pint and half-pint jugs -
Knives, forks, and scissors, if you please to give,
With steels and spoons, we'll thankfully receive;
Books, pictures, prints, need not be left behind,
Nor anything instructive to the mind.
Loaves, cakes, or cheesecakes, and good things with all,
We humbly ask for a refreshment stall;
And now, kind friends, we think you'll see by this,
No kind of article will come amiss.
We hope no one will be disposed to say
"I've nothing for you - call some other day."
Do try your best and help us if you please,
We seek your gifts to aid our good Trustees.
And when on earth you cease to act and live,
May you from Christ a crown of life Receive.

From those who do not choose to give articles for sale, money will be thankfully received by Mr. William Hotten, Treasurer, of whom any further information may be had.

photographed pages, cannot now be found).

Ladock

The site of the present chapel at Ladock was granted by William Moore on February 13, 1816, to the Rev.
Jas. H. Eaton, for 999 years absolute at 2..6d per year; and on the following day (February 14, 1816) was made over to a body of Trustees, vis. Arthur Rose, James Keast, Samuel Blake, Edward. Blake, William Hooper, Thomas Kelly, Joseph Roberts, John Retallick, William Hatten, John Hatten, John Nioholls, William Kessell ...
William Annear .....

Probus and its History

..... In 1814 there were nine classes connected with Probus, some meeting in the neighbouring farm houses.
The names of the leaders were Jno. Nioholls with James Dabb, son of the man of similar name, as assistant,
Jas. Yeoman, John Phillips, Thos. Reed, Richard Crewes, Wm. Hatten, jun., Jno. Hatten and William Hatten
(two classes).....

.....On December 23, 1768, there was born in Probus, a babe who, in latter years, was destined to make his mark on the Methodism of that village, though it was not until he had reached his 29th year that he threw in his lot with the "people". His parents being fairly well to do, he had the advantage of what, for his day, would be deemed. a liberal education. In those days there was a noted educational seminary at Tregony, presumably the precursor of the later far famed Hart House School, and there, in common with many other sons of the gentlemen farmers of the district, he received his education. He seems to have been of a vivacious temperament, for among many of his youthful pranks recorded in a manuscript diary and autobiography loaned me by his relative, I learn that one day during the temporary absence of the school master he lay himself along the form he was seated in and feigned to be dead. Another lad out of bravado drew a knife across his throat and did more than it was intended! So serious was the injury that had not the school master and his wife been doctor and nurse he probably would have bled to death. On another occasion, when about 17 years of age, he took a gun to shoot small birds. "The gun went off in the pan (an old style flint and powder in the pan weapon). I immediately took it down from my shoulder and blew in it, but it so happened that it did not go off, and so a great deliverance was granted". Riding later from a Christmas festivity his horse stumbled and fell, and he was left senseless in the road for some hours. Seeing the few Methodists one Sunday morning coming up the turnpike road from their eight o'clock meeting, he noted how happy they looked; so the next Sunday morning, having been making enquiries during the week, he was invited to attend and he remarks (writing three years after) that he had not missed one since. With his brother John he went on Sunday evening to hear the Methodist preacher (named MacGerry). These two men in the second epoch of Probus Methodism, were a great power, as the sequel will show .....

.....Mr. William Hotten informs us that about this time (1812 to 1815) he weekly met two classes in his home .....

.....The diary says, under date November 1824: "I went this day with two of my friends and bought the old Malt House. It stands on the East side of the road from Probus to Ladock; we intend to alter it into a chapel; the present chapel being too small to contain the people who wish to hear the Word of God." Under December 8, it says: "Last Sunday our monthly meeting was the best in Probus for many years. After being adapted to the purposes of a chapel at the cost of £700, it was opened on July 16, 1825, by the Rev. Wm. Hayman, of Falmouth....."

.....On Feb. 9 1826, this chapel was conveyed by Sir Christopher Hawkins to Wm. Hotten and John Nicholls; and then by them as a copyhold, at sixpence a year, to the following Board of Trustees: William Annear, Wm. Hotten, Richard Crewes, John Searle, James Hotten, Thomas Rooke, John C. Stannaway, James Dabb, Thos. Reed, John Hotteh, Bennett Yeoman, Lewis Penticost, William Kestell and Chas. Reynolds .....

from "The West Briton" January 4th 1962.

The effects of the Great Revival in 1815-17 were felt in Probus, where the membership rose from about 47 in 1812 to 279 in 1824. The Methodist Sunday-school was opened in the old chapel in 1815.

After the death of Elizabeth Dabb's father in 1812, his daughter having predeceased him, the leadership of the society fell increasingly on William Hotten, class leader and local preacher, and he appeared to have been the prime mover in the transfer of the society to the present chapel 136 years ago. He wrote in his diary of having gone with two of his friends "and bought the old Malt House. We intend to alter it into a chapel, the present chapel being too small". Adapting the building cost £700, while the income from the opening services amounted to the then princely sum of £237, including £25 from the sale of the old chapel.....

Lake City Publishing Co., 1891

James Yeoman. No one among the surviving pioneers in Lake County is more deserving of favourable mention in this work than the worthy Christian gentleman whose name heads this sketch. He is a native of England, and was born in the town of Probus, Cornwall, on the 1st of April, 1813. His parents, Bennett and Bathsua (Hotten) Yeoman, were also natives of Cornwall, and his father was a merchant tailor of Probus for many years.

The subject of this sketch received a good English education, and learned the business of a merchant tailor in his father's shop. Having attained to man's estate, he engaged in business for himself in his native town as a merchant tailor and dry-goods merchant, carrying on an extensive business, and employing at times as many as fourteen workmen and clerks. On the 10th of May, 1836, he was united in marriage in Probus with Miss Elizabeth, daughter of Lewis and Mary Pentecost. The lady was born in Probus, June 15, 1815, and is descended from good old English ancestry. In the spring of 1846, Mr. Yeoman emigrated to America with his family, then consisting of a wife and six children. In October, they landed in Boston, where Mrs. Yeoman has a brother residing, the Rev. William Pentecost, a minister of the Methodist Church.

After a short time spent in Boston, they came to Illinois, landing at Little Fort, now Waukegan, where Mrs. Yeoman's sister, Mrs. Treweeke, resided. Mr. Yeoman was anxious to engage in agricultural pursuits, and at once purchased a partially improved farm of one hundred and sixty acres in Benton Township, now the property of his son-in-law, Hiram Ferry. The farm is situated on the Waukegan and Kenosha road, and was the site of the well-known tavern, the Grove House. Not liking the idea of becoming an inn keeper, Mr. Yeoman took down the sign and closed the house as a place of entertainment for travellers, devoting his attention to farming. Tiring of his new style of life after three years experience, he leased his farm in 1849 and engaged in the clothing business in Kenosha, Wisconsin. Six years later he sold out at that place and returned to his farm where he resided until 1862. He then sold the farm and engaged in business in Waukegan as merchant tailor, undertaker and dealer in furniture, which business he carried on successfully until 1881, having his son Edward for a partner some four years. At the expiration of that time, his health being impaired, he retired from active business.

Mr. and Mrs. Yeoman were blessed with a family of eleven children, seven sons and four daughters, of whom six were born in Cornwall, England, one in Kenosha and four in Lake County. Of the eleven, four only are now living, two daughters and two sons: John, the eldest, married Hattie Graham, of Waukegan, and died at the age of thirty-one years, leaving one child, Maggie M.; William P. is married, and is a leading jeweller of Waukegan, whose sketch appears elsewhere in this work; Edward B. married Helen Vandemark, and is a manufacturer of Chicago and Waukegan; Mary Jane is the wife of Hiram Ferry, a prominent farmer of Benton Township, who is also represented elsewhere in this work; Bennett died in infancy; Philippa died at the age of four years; Louisa died in infancy; Philippa Bathsua is the wife of George R. Lyon, a merchant of Waukegan; Bennett James died in infancy, as did also the two next younger, both of whom were named Lewis James.

Mr. and Mrs. Yeoman continued to reside in Waukegan until August, 1890, when finding themselves becoming infirm from advancing years, they made their home with their daughter, Mrs. Ferry, in Benton Township, where they are cherished and honoured members of the home circle. This worthy couple are most earnest and consistent members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, with which they have been connected since youth, Mr. Yeoman having united with that church when fourteen years of age, and his wife when she was sixteen.

Mr. Yeoman has been actively identified with the Methodist Church since he reached mature years as a Class-Leader and a member of the official Board, and has contributed liberally to its support. He has long been recognized as a prominent and influential member whose whole heart is enlisted in the cause of Christianity. While he loves the name of Methodist, he is broad and liberal in his views, and has given a generous support to other Christian denominations in erecting their houses of worship. He does not think it necessary to consider the name of creed of a fellow Christian, but is ready to welcome with open arms any true and consistent follower of Christ.

In politics Mr. Yeoman was an anti-slavery man in the early days of his residence in America, and has voted with the Republican party since its organization. His life has been a busy and useful one, and has been crowned with success, so that in his old age he is well-to-do, and is the owner of a valuable property, both real estate and personal. He and his wife have been wedded companions for fifty-five years, during which time they have been devoted to each other and to their children in the highest sense of domestic duty and affection, and their lives have been such as to command the respect and kindly regard of all who know them.

General Notes: From a book sent to Elizabeth Hotten from New Zealand. The book begins with the following:-
"The early life of John James Stanaway is unknown to us, only that he was born in Camberwell, Surrey, England on 16th July 1813..... John James left England under a cloud, many have been told it was because he killed a gentleman in a duel who had insulted his sister at a ball. John James came to New Zealand as a naval rating in the early 1840's..... In 1842/43 he brought with him his wife (name and nationality unknown), she gave birth to one daughter, Mary Ann, between Sydney and New Zealand, and a few days later Mrs Stanaway died and was buried at sea"

He went on to marry his Maori "nanny".

General Notes: The following text has been gathered from the web.

John Camden Hotten was a publisher who is remembered today mainly by genealogists because of his compilation of the names (and ships and dates) of Victorians who emigrated to The New World.

John Camden Hotten who published and possibly compiled A Dictionary of Modern Slang, Cant and Vulgar Words (1859), which is attributed to 'An Antiquary' who may well have been Hotten himself had a bad reputation as publisher: he may have been a blackmailer, and he certainly seems to have exploited his authors. He pirated Mark Twain and Bret Harte, but printed an expurgated edition of Whitman's Leaves of Grass (edited by William Michael Rossetti), and rescued Swinburne's poems and Ballads when the original publisher became too frightened to go on. He is said to have died from eating too many pork chops. Swinburne, ungratefully, remarked that his death was an argument against cannibalism. Hotten's publishing house was taken over by Chatto and Windus. John Camden Hotten (1832-73) has had a very poor press from both his contemporaries and later historians. At best, his actions have been regarded as shady and, at worst, positively criminal. All the best stories concerning Hotten involve dubious deals, exploitation of writers, violent arguments, and even hints of blackmail. It may well be that most of the stories are true or, at least, true enough to justify the publisher's Machiavellian image. It was certainly the case that less egregious publishers, who, nevertheless, were not always above the occasional dubious deal or mild piece of author exploitation would welcome an almost comic character whose excesses made their sharp practice seem blunt. At a time when British publishing was undergoing a period of rapid and sometimes painful transition, when new and pushy firms were beginning to hustle, it was comforting to have someone to remind authors that, however unhappy they were with their current publisher, there was always Hotten to confirm that things could be worse. In histories of the exploitation of contemporary texts unprotected by copyright, Hotten had always been a useful British counterweight to all those examples of unprincipled American reprinting. If the British cried, in accusation, "Dickens, Eliot, and Thackeray!" the Americans could retort, "Artemis Ward, Bret Harte, and Mark Twain!" all of whom, at one time or another, Hotten had liberated into the British market. Even Hotten's death, like a Christmas cracker, could provide a joke and a moral. Swinburne--whose Poems and Ballads (1866) had been rescued and published by Hotten when its original publisher Moxon had got cold feet, commented, "When I heard that he [Hotten] had died of a surfeit of pork chops, I observed that this was a serious argument against my friend Richard Burton's views on cannibalism as wholesome." John Camden Hotten's Forgery of the 1872 'Leaves of Grass' (1873) From a first look, the 1873 British edition of 'Leaves of Grass' appears to be identical to the 1872 American edition published in Washington, D. C., including the fact that the title page bears the date '1872' and the publishing location 'Washington, D. C.' Remembering the constraints placed on the 1868 Poems by Walt Whitman which he also published, John Camden Hotten printed 500 copies of Leaves of Grass based on the 1872 American edition and posed as its distributor, rather than publisher, to avoid British censorship laws. Hotten's name doesn't appear anywhere in the book. While an edition in the truest sense in that it was printed from original plates unique to that printing, the pirated British edition is taken word for word from the 1872 American edition. The forged identity of the book stumped textual scholars for a long time until they realized that the ornamental features and line breaks of the forged edition are inconsistent in places with the authentic 1872 American edition. The book was both a forgery and a piracy for which Whitman received no royalties, and it would be the only complete British edition of Leaves of Grass published in his lifetime. John Hotten's publishing company is now part of the Random House Group and many of his original manuscripts are said to be held by them and the Centre for Writing, Publishing and Printing History, Reading University.

Lake City Publishing Co., 1891

William P. Yeoman, well-known as a successful business man of Waukegan, was born in Probus, Cornwall, England, on the 11th of September, 1834. A sketch of his parents, James and Elizabeth (Pentecost) Yeoman, appears in connection with that of Mrs. Hiram Ferry on another page of this volume. Our subject is the second in a family of eleven children. He began his scholastic training in the district schools and completed his literary education in the public schools of Kenosha, Wis. When a young man of seventeen years he commenced to learn the jeweller's trade at that place, spending three years with R.O. Gottfredsen, a jeweller of Kenosha. He entered upon his business career in the autumn of 1859, when he and his brother, John H., established themselves in the jewellery business in Chicago. The following year they removed their stock to Waukegan and Mr. Yeoman purchased his partner's interest. For thirty years he has now carried on business in this city, and in addition to the jewellery trade engages as a dealer in wallpaper, pianos, organs and sewing machines. He is also interested in a music house in Chicago. On the 9th of June, 1868, he invented and patented Yeoman's wall paper trimmer, which has proved a decided success. It was the first patent of the kind granted, and its usefulness is acknowledged by all engaged in the wall paper business that have seen its workings. He also patented and manufactures Yeoman's bundle horse, Yeoman's sample stand, and Yeoman's revolving curtain exhibit. Besides this he has made several patents in the line of jewellery, including improvements on ear-rings, shirt buttons, etc. He has also invented and patented a barb wire tightener. As our readers will have already learned he possesses great inventive genius, and has placed upon the market a number of most useful inventions which are already netting him a good income.

In Maumee, Ohio, on the 6th of December, 1866, Mr. Yeoman wedded Julia Reynolds, a daughter of George W. and Laura (Page) Reynolds. She was born in Maumee and is one of five children, three sons and two daughters. Unto Mr. and Mrs. Yeoman have been born four sons, the eldest of whom, William, died at the age of eleven years; Louis J., George W. and Roy R., are still at home. Mr. Yeoman is a Knight Templar Mason and a Republican in politics. He has been remarkably successful in business. The stock he brought from Chicago amounted to but very little and the undertaking there had proved a failure. Upon his return to Waukegan he purchased a small stock from George S. Wheeler for $125, and was unable to pay cash for it. Now he has the largest stock in the city besides other valuable interests, and is accounted one of the prominent and enterprising men of Lake County. Wide awake and progressive he takes an interest in all public affairs that are calculated to upbuild and benefit the community.

Noted events in his life were:

- He worked as a Jeweller.

parents told of how they stood in Stratford (East London) Broadway and saw her name on a banner on the door of West Ham Town Hall, advertising a concert there. Then, in later life, Uncle Jim was asked by an associate if he was related to Hannah Hotten, "the singer with a beautiful voice". She was evidently performing around 1890/1900.

Hannah Hotten's musical career is recorded on pages 65 and 66 of the book 'Musical Women in England, 1870-1914' by Paula Gillett.

The Times newspaper reported in 2000...

"The prodigy violinist Marie Hall and the aspiring singer Hannah Hotten came from unambiguously working class origins, while the musical talents of Adelina de Lara made her the family breadwinner at the age of ten. As shown in the examples of Hall and Hotten, scholarship assistance at England's major conservatories was insufficient for a girl whose parents could neither help with living expenses nor forgo her contribution to family income. Hall grew up in grinding poverty, performing with her father for coin-handouts on the docks and waterfronts of Bristol. Hotten's lovely voice was discovered as she sang to lift her spirits while scrubbing the floors of a Gospel Temperance Mission"

Noted events in her life were:

- Address: 10 Henry's Place, 1881, Shoreditch, London, England.
- Address: 45 Gifford Street, 1891, Shoreditch, London, England.

- General Notes: At the beginning of WW1 my Great Uncle Harry's brigade was part of the 4th Division and his battalion, the Fifth City of London Rifles, went to France in November 1914. Three weeks after he was killed on 26 April 1915, his battalion was transferred to GHQ for three months and they must have been severely mauled at 2nd Ypres because while at GHQ they formed a composite battalion with two others. This suggests that on average the three battalions forming the new composite battalion were at only one-third strength each, that is, down from about 600 troops each to 200 with poor Uncle Harry among the lost.

General Notes: Recollections

My earliest recollection of Grandad is that he worked on a railway yard crane unloading timber and I gained the impression that he must have plenty of spare time while stuck in his cab because he carved me a number of wooden toys when such things weren't available in the shops. A heavy red wooden trolley bus with chalked figures in its black painted windows survived many years of being dragged around makeshift tracks in the garden some of which were complete with twigs supporting 'electric wires' made of string. A box of wooden bricks survives to this day. Another by-product of work in the timber yard was a ready supply of feral kittens as pets.

Whilst we lived not two minutes walk away from Grandad in Porter's Field_ he used to take me on local walks. Stray bombs had provided innumerable little ponds for the collection of frog's spawn and the nearby railway line provided a common interest as clanking worn out steam engines hauled massively long goods trains out of Stratford's marshalling yard at barely walking pace. The longest we counted I clearly remember was of 137 unbraked coal wagons. If one walked further along the railway line there was a point at which one could get across it which led to Walthamstow's street market. On one such visit Grandad bought me a toy traffic policeman with hands up and outstretched in 'Stop' fashion. On the way home I repeatedly ran ahead of Grandad and stood the policeman on the pavement in front of him. He dutifully stopped every time; the patience of a saint!

After being widowed for the second time in 1956 Grandad was a regular visitor to our home in Farnborough and would sometimes stay for quite long periods. He was always good for a 'threepenny brick' when the Walls ice cream van came around - which he always called the okey-pokey man. During these stays he could sometimes be coaxed into providing stories of 'the olden days'. Apparently farmers still used to walk their sheep to Smithfield Market through the streets of West Ham and young boys would find it irresistible to follow them to their destination, although the long hike back tended to dampen their enthusiasm. Another tale concerned the losing of sixpence down the back of a newspaper placard fixed to the front of the local shop when sent on an errand by his mother, the subsequent severe ticking off by his mother and the joy of finding half a crown when sent back with a stick to scratch around behind the placard.

Grandad signed up to be a soldier in 1913 and trained at Warley and Oakhampton barracks and joined the Royal Field Artillery. As such he saw service in the major battles of World War I including the Somme and Ypres. In common with many men who survived that war he was never very keen to say much about it; however a number of incidents were teased out of him.

These included the fact that shells that you could hear weren't the ones to worry about as they were flying over your head, and that when they landed in the stables, or in one case an orchard where the horses had been kept overnight, removing their remains from the branches of the trees was not a job for the squeamish.

He also described a near miss when he was cooking breakfast for his troop with a friend. They were contentedly frying the eggs and bacon when he heard a strange noise and on looking around saw his friend with a small hole in his head and uttering his last words, "oh Fred" as he fell to the ground dead, victim of a sniper's bullet. (†)

A much happier incident concerned an inspection by some visiting officers accompanied by a Military Policeman. Frederick said that he bet a fellow soldier that he could be cheeky to the officer and get away with it, which he did and was promptly arrested by the M.P. What he had not told his soldier friend was that he had recognised the M.P. as his father - who at the time he didn't even know was in France, nor that he was an M.P. Naturally he was released without charge.

After the war ended; being a regular soldier rather than a conscript, he remained in the R.H.A. and was stationed at Bordon where he was on standby in case of expected civil and industrial unrest. Whilst staying with us in Farnborough during the late 1950s and with both Aldershot and Bordon being nearby he was able to visit his old haunts and proclaimed that they had not changed one bit since he was there in 1913 and 1919. Aldershot's Wellington Barracks, he said were old and decrepit in 1913, they certainly smelled strongly of horse manure as late as 1966 when I bought a house within sniffing distance of the barracks. Wellington Barracks were eventually demolished a year or two after Grandad died.

In 1956, while staying with us in Farnborough Grandad became unwell and spent time in Farnham hospital. In those days children were not allowed into adult's secrets and I didn't ever know exactly why he was there but I remember Grandad speaking of doctor's chipping into his bones and pointing at his chest. Whether he was suffering from a bone complaint (as I thought at the time) or whether it was heart surgery I do not know. After treatment at Farnham he took advantage of his former employer's convalescence facilities at Fowey, Cornwall. On the left is the official photograph of his stay at the Trenynton Spa Hotel as it is now known.

In 1965 while still living with my parents at 37 Aldershot Road, I answered the telephone which Dad had only recently had installed - he thought he should after I started working for the G.P.O. - and it was Aunt Win who told me that Grandad had died whilst they were out at a Scout Gang show and it fell to us to break the news to his daughter, my mother.

If you enjoyed hearing the spoken introduction about Frederick's allotment you may wish to see him hard at work on it.

General Notes: Recollections:

My mother used to tell me that her sister was my favourite aunt. Certainly she was the one who found the time to entertain me in unusual ways which were not open to my other aunts. It's impossible after all these years to put the earliest events into chronological order but it would be logical to suppose that they took place whilst we lived in adjacent streets (Second Avenue and Fourth Avenue. Porter's Field Leyton) and that would place things between the middle of 1947 and the summer of 1949.

Winnie, being a teacher long before government inspectors drained the profession's enthusiasm, could smuggle a small child into school without any red tape getting in the way. She took advantage of this fact several times before I reached official school age. She must have been an infants' school teacher because all I remember about those school days is that we went on a bus to Custom House and the classroom included a nice big sandpit. Exactly how many times I was taken to that school I do not know but it must have been at least three or four.

The other treat which I remember reasonably well was seaside holidays, two I think, in Littlehampton. Just me and Aunt Win. I remember the little steam railway in the park at the end of the road, it's still there but diesel hauled now, and several trips into Brighton on the top deck of a bus. There was a bit of the road on the route that had subsided or something and I particularly remember how the bus swayed as it went over it and looked forward to it on each journey. I don't remember much about Brighton except that miniature buses gave rides along the promenade and the fairground roundabouts.

Some years later after Aunt Win was married and with children I also recall her explaining to me how her daughter Dorothy had come to arrive on the scene. However, excellent teacher though she no doubt was, she still managed to confuse me about the details. She was also very patient with my tendency to insist on trawling the River Roding and Wanstead Flats ponds equipped with a fishing net and a jam jar.

General Notes: Recollections

I was told that when I was only a few days old, Uncle Harry came to see his first nephew and, presumably as lost for words as most men are when presented with a new baby and under pressure to say something complimentary, said, "even the whites of his eyes are blue". Naturally enough I have no recollection of that one. The first of my own concerns a motorcycle ride along the Lea Bridge Road. There must have been a time when we (Knights) had been rehoused at Porter's Fields but the rest of the family (Hottens) were still in the Nissen hut at Whipps Cross for I remember being placed on Harry's pillion seat and whisked along the the mile or two that separated those addresses gripping my uncle's jacket. I may have been as young as four at the time, certainly no more than five.

Another recollection that might not reflect too well on the culprit is that I twice hid under the dining table at Harry's Nissen hut equipped with a pair of scissors and silently snipped off the velvet decorative bobbles that hung from the edges of his table cloth.

Moving on to the early 1950s I recall that Harry gave me a long awaited pair of roller skates for Christmas. Only a couple of years later when I was in need of a bicycle to get to school and money was presumably short he found me a second hand Raleigh complete with four speed Sturmey Archer gears (when the norm was none and at best only three), a hub-dynamo, which was very unusual when acetylene lamps weren't unheard of on bikes, and drop handle bars. What else would a 14 years old aspire to? It cost only £4 and although second hand was as good as new. Only one problem; it was in Walthamstow and I lived in Hampshire. But Harry had a simple solution to that, he rode it across London and all the way down the A30 to deliver it.

Harry was a particularly good handy man. For several years he worked at silver-smithing but carpentry was something that he never neglected. Until only a couple of years ago I still had two tables in the house that he had made. Unfortunately one of them which was made of veneered plywood split and fell apart and had to be scrapped but another made of oak is still in every day use despite it being at least 50 years old.

Information provided by Malcolm Knight 14 October 2006.

Noted events in his life were:

- He worked as a Fireman (18 years).
- He worked as a London Transport Bus Conductor.
- He worked as a School Technician.
